Appendix A - OLTON ISD COORDINATED SCHOOL HEALTH

SB 892 Compliance

SB 892 states:

“Expands the required components of a campus improvement plan (CIP) for an Elementary, Middle, or Junior High to include goals and objectives for the coordinated school health program at the campus based on student fitness assessment data, student academic performance data, student attendance rates, the percentage of students who are academically disadvantaged, the use and success of any method to ensure student participation in the state-mandated moderate to vigorous physical activity, and any other indicator recommended by the local school health advisory council.”

Coordinated School Health (CSH)

CSH is comprised of eight components that focus on the most effective and efficient way to meet the needs of young people. The components incorporate cognitive skills, development of policies that support a positive and hazard-free environment, promote the opportunities for staff members to foster their own well-being, and encourage family and community members to promote the well-being of young people.

Appendix B - TAKS to STAAR [added 2011-12 school year]

TAKS: Did students learn what they were supposed to learn in the current year's grade?

STAAR: Did students learn what they were supposed to learn in current year's grade? Are students ready for the next grade? Are students ready for the grade after that? [p. 7]

STAAR will measure the eligible TEKS at the level at which they are written.

Teachers must understand differentiation of instruction for students to be successful on STAAR – all students do not learn in the same way. All teachers must have high percentages of students scoring commended and/or large increases in the percentages of students scoring commended which demonstrates teaching at a high level of rigor.

- staff development
- materials/resources

A key concept that underpins the design of STAAR is that all standards [TEKS] do not play the same role in student learning. All teachers must understand readiness standards [65% of STAAR test items], supporting standards [35% of STAAR test items], and process standards as described in lead4ward STAAR Field Guides.

- staff development
- materials/resources

Data informed practice:

In areas where students' performance in the current assessment system is low, the instructional leader must ensure that teachers have the skills, tools, and resources to meet the standards in the more rigorous assessment STAAR. In the areas where the data show success, particularly on readiness standards, then replicating, adapting, and maintaining those successful practices will be continued [p. 61].

-----staff development
-----materials/resources

All stake holders must understand that STAAR-like items have been in the previous system [TAKS]. They are just the more difficult items. When teachers prepare benchmark assessments they should feel free to use released TAKS tests items which reflect STAAR-like rigor.

-----staff development
-----materials/resources

Item analysis at the student expectation [SE] level:

Conduct an item analysis at the SE level for all students, students scoring commended, students who are economically disadvantaged, and students who are English Language Learners – Hot spots will be identified, those SEs where the tested population has struggled.

All students – review patters in performance on the TEKS assessed on TAKS that are also assessed on STAAR. If in the current system, the standards are difficult to teach – then the same will be true for STAAR. Processes and structures for professional development and instructional resources will be implemented to reexamine the level of complexity for both teaching and learning.

-----staff development
-----materials/resources

Commended students – Readiness standards where the highest level students struggled will be examined and processes and structures for professional development and instructional resources will be implemented to reexamine the level of complexity for both teaching and learning.

-----staff development
-----materials/resources

Economically disadvantaged students - Readiness standards where economically disadvantaged students struggled will be examined and processes and structures for professional development and instructional resources will be implemented to reexamine the level of complexity for both teaching and learning. Issues for review will include: academic vocabulary, extraneous information, and persistence in problem solving [stopping too early].

-----staff development
-----materials/resources

English Language Learners - Readiness standards where English Language Learner students struggled will be examined and processes and structures for professional development and instructional resources will be implemented to reexamine the level of complexity for both teaching and learning.
